An appointment has been set with the agency I am evaluating. On this date, I will notify them that I will need to evaluate for 3-4 weeks and that I will need some involvement from the stakeholders to complete my evaluation.	On this date, I will begin evaluating the agency. I will start with interviewing the stakeholders on this day.	This week, I will begin interviewing the program participants. These participants will be the ones that come to the agency and the ones that the agency goes to the home.	This week I will begin interviewing the workers. I will ask them about how they think the program is working.	At the beginning of this week, I will go back and let the stakeholders know all the information gathered. Towards the end of the week I will complete and type up my evaluation experience.
